

ITEM/ART 10559

There are primarily two purposes for which business plan are written. The first has an outside objective--to obtain funding. The second serves an inside purpose--to provide a plan for early corporate development: to guide an organization toward meeting its objectives, to keep the entrepreneurial business itself and all its decision makers headed in a predetermined direction